The musical score is written for a choir and piano. It consists of six systems of staves. The first system has a single treble staff with a measure of music and a measure of rests, followed by four measures of rests. The second system has two staves: the top staff has a measure of music and a measure of rests, followed by four measures of rests; the bottom staff has a measure of music and a measure of rests, followed by four measures of rests. The third system has two staves: the top staff has a measure of music and a measure of rests, followed by four measures of rests; the bottom staff has a measure of music and a measure of rests, followed by four measures of rests. The fourth system has two staves: the top staff has a measure of music and a measure of rests, followed by four measures of rests; the bottom staff has a measure of music and a measure of rests, followed by four measures of rests. The fifth system has two staves: the top staff has a measure of music and a measure of rests, followed by four measures of rests; the bottom staff has a measure of music and a measure of rests, followed by four measures of rests. The sixth system has two staves: the top staff has a measure of music and a measure of rests, followed by four measures of rests; the bottom staff has a measure of music and a measure of rests, followed by four measures of rests. The lyrics 'A - le - lu - ia!' are written below the staves in the sixth system.
